COMPREHENSIVE COVERAGE AT THE MOST COMPETITIVE PRICE

Developed for First Nations, by First Nations

At AIS, we don’t believe in a one-size-fits-all solution. We understand that tobacco related businesses are not only complex, they are unique to each location. That is why our Tobacco Guard coverage is tailor made to fit your specific needs. We can accommodate businesses from a small start-up road-side stand, to complex multi-location manufacturing or processing plants.

We ensure that every client, from big to small, has access to the same, hands-on, level of support. Our clients have dedicated underwriting managers, each of whom are experienced insurance professionals. We combine the role of consultant, analyst, transaction negotiator, closer, and servicer -- in all, project management skills with extensive industry contacts.

Business startups

Many insurers require the insured to have been in business for a minimum of 5 years which minimum sales of $250,000. At AIS, we believe that every business deserves insurance coverage, from start-ups to those who have been in business for years.

Businesses involved in a range of industries

The most popular industries include services such as tourism and property management (42%), energy (38%), followed by construction (25%), communications (21%), and finance (21%). A few are also involved in mining (8%), transportation (8%) or forestry (4%).

Multiple partnership structures

Partnerships are used by companies as a way to access money, to take advantage of an opportunity that is beyond the current scope, or to build capacity. These businesses reach across many different areas (services, construction, communications, finance) and varying markets (local, domestic and international).

Businesses dealing with multiple markets

Most tobacco companies are operating within their local communities, but many also have access to other markets. This mainly includes clients in other parts of Ontario, but also clients in other provinces, the USA, and internationally. Access to markets in other provinces or other countries remains more common among mature businesses.

AIS BUSINESS CLASSES

Class 1 Businesses are ancillary and incidental operations that have been set up on or off reserve for the immediate benefit and use of community members such as on reserve laundromats, grocery stores, convenience stores, daycares, restaurants, etc. These entities are owned and operated at the direction of Chief and Council for the benefit of the community members with at least 70 per cent of all revenue produced from community members. They may be incorporated or a sole proprietorships.

These business pursuits may be solely owned, partnerships or incorporated and could include joint ownership with band members and with off reserve non-native entrepreneurs. These businesses are very key to community Economic Development and vary from community to community and may include the following:

Forestry	Oil and Gas	Mining	Construction

Aquaculture	Real Estate	Aviation	Employee Benefits

INSURANCE AS UNIQUE AS YOU ARE

Whether large or small, all institutions face unique challenges in managing risk. We thoroughly review each of our client's operations and requirements to seek the right insurance partner and to help us develop a customized and tailored insurance program specific to each client.

Although we adhere to underwriting guidelines, AIS offers a flexibility other insurance companies do not—we focus on our customer needs and build from there, rather than forcing you into a program that does not fit your coverage requirements. Our customers pick and choose their own coverage type. We are aware of cultural differences and decision making variations within our communities and we approach each community with respect.

Because we represent so many different communities, we understand historical and cultural differences among communities and the importance these differences play in the Aboriginal decision making process. Our programs are flexible and are built from the ground up, based upon what we hear from our clients, rather than forcing them into a "one size fits all" program.

OUR PRODUCTS

With one convenient package, you're protected against fire, theft, lawsuits and more. In addition, you can purchase optional coverages allowing you to tailor a policy that meets the unique needs of your business, today and as it evolves.

The Tobacco Guard program is a cost-effective, time-saving solution. It saves you the trouble of researching and purchasing separate policies. And it is often more economical that purchasing each type of insurance separately.

Commercial Property Insurance

This is one of the most important investments you can make to ensure the future of your business. Whether you own your building, lease your workspace or work from home, business property insurance protects your business' physical assets against loss or damage from a broad range of causes including theft, fire, smoke, water, and vandalism.

Commercial Property insurance covers a wide variety of property, including equipment, inventory and supplies, office furniture and fixtures, computers, and electronics. Personal and customer property kept at the business site is also covered. If you or your employees are on the go, coverage protects your tools and equipment while in a company vehicle.

General Liability Insurance

Accidents can happen in a matter of seconds, but damages can cost you the business that you have taken years to build up. Commercial General Liability insurance (CGL) will protect your business from lawsuits involving bodily injuries that occur within your workplace, and injuries or damages caused by your employees elsewhere including injuries to customers, employees, vendors or visitors that occur on your premises, injuries that occur elsewhere as a result of the actions or negligence of an employee, and third party property damage caused by an employee.

Even if you are operating a home-based enterprise single-handedly, you need the protection of General Liability insurance because most home policies will not cover business activities. An injury to a visitor in your home office or to a delivery person at your front door may leave you liable for their claims.

Business Interruption Insurance

Consider the worst...a fire destroys your workshop, a thief steals your office computer, or a flood ruins your inventory. While property insurance covers the cost of replacing your building, equipment or materials, how do you maintain your business in the meantime? Business Interruption insurance helps you get your business up and running again, in the shortest time possible. Coverage begins from the time of the loss and continues until you're able to reopen your business.

Business Interruption insurance can also include extra expense coverage, to help you pay for the extra costs of getting operational again, such as employee overtime or relocation to a temporary site.

Commercial Automobile Insurance

Commercial Automobile Insurance protects a company's vehicles, including vehicles that carry employees, products, or equipment. With this insurance you can insure your work cars, SUVs, vans, and trucks from damage and collisions. If you do not have company vehicles, but employees drive their own cars on company business you should have a non-owned automobile liability to protect the company in case the employee does not have insurance or has inadequate coverage.

Crime, Fraud, and Fidelity Insurance

Crime is more than burglary or theft of office equipment. Damage to your business can also come from within, through employee dishonesty, or from half the world away through electronic fraud. Crime insurance, fraud insurance, and fidelity insurance guards against these types of risks.

Construction Insurance

Marine Guard Insurance

Being involved in marine related industries presents several opportunities for captains and business owners, but it also carries an elevated exposure to risk. Regardless of whether or not you have one small vessel or large operations, you not only have increased liability, but a business that is directly dependent on your vessel being in good working order.

AIS offers a wide variety of Commercial Marine products targeted specifically for Aboriginal commercial fish harvesting and processing operations including commercial fishing vessels, on shore and off shore aquaculture operations, marinas, docks and wharves.

Wood Guard Insurance

ABORIGINAL INSURANCE SERVICES

Aboriginal Insurance Services has been working both in front and behind the scenes for many years to develop insurance and risk management products that provide our clients with a full range of products and services. The creation of AIS is the first of several steps to provide the Aboriginal community with unparalleled services and products.

Prior to the AIS program, few underwriters or brokers fully understood the diverse environment, or recognized the individual cultural needs and traditions of the Aboriginal community. Insurance coverage was needlessly restricted and premiums were excessive given the actual risk to be insured. Even though approximately 1.5 million Canadians are registered members of an Aboriginal group, most insurance companies were simply not prepared to provide insurance and risk management coverage that adequately addressed the needs of these communities.
